be prepared...

be connected
Progress depends on networks. They provide the prerequisites for future success in our increasingly digital world. Networking enables synergies, accelerates processes, optimizes costs, opens up new business opportunities; in short: paves the way to the future!

FIR e. V. connects people from industry, research, politics and associations. They are all working on shaping the future of "industrial management" in a sustainable way. In the network they use the interdisciplinary exchange and the access to current expert knowledge as impulse givers for new projects, as door openers for contacts and partnerships, for the development of new ideas and innovations.

The structure and motivation of our members shows a bright variety, resembling the different facets of the working environment of the future. FIR e. V. unites everything under one roof – the ideal conditions for constructive discussions of future topics.
